MISSION

The mission of the Kent County Regional Resource Recovery Facility ((KCRRRF) is to transport and treat wastewater and produce a quality biosolids product in a cost-effective, sustainable manner in order to protect the environment, support public and employee health and safety and protect the investment of its customers in the infrastructure required.

SUSTAINABILITY VISION

The sustainability vision to support the KCRRRF mission offers the following commitments:

1. Comply with applicable environmental, health and safety laws and regulations and appropriate occupational health and safety practices;
2. Have practices that are consistent with the principles of the National Biosolids Partnership's Code of Good Practices;
3. Improve continually its environmental, health and safety performance;
4. Readily communicate with interested stakeholders about its sustainability, environmental, health and safety performance;
5. Promote pollution prevention activities, energy efficiency and conservation, the use of renewable energy sources to the maximum extent technically and economically feasible;
6. Promote effective health and safety practices including the prevention of injury and ill-health; and
7. Support sustainability efforts that reduce the facility's dependence on fossil fuels and man-made chemicals.
8. Endeavor to achieve zero net energy at the facility by producing sufficient onsite energy at the facility to offset any energy purchased from offsite non-renewable sources.
